A Gratitude Adjustment

By Reggie Joiner

Of all the qualities God tries to build into our character, gratitude seems to be one of the most obvious. It doesn't take long to tell if someone is thankful or not. It's the kind of quality that sets a pattern for the rest of an individual's personality. "Gratitude", "gratis" and "grace come from the same Latin word.

I guess God not only knows that gratitude makes us more gracious, but He also knows what happens when gratitude is absent. Have you ever stopped to think about what gradually happens to your child's heart when they learn to show gratitude to others and even to God? Or what happens gradually when our children neglect to demonstrate gratitude?

If they don't learn to be intentionally grateful, they develop

Early Childhood

This month, we will learn to be thankful for family, friends, and food. We are going to be bubbling over with thankfulness to God!

Honor is letting someone know you see how valuable they really are. All people have value because they were created in the image of God. God values each of us so much that He sent Jesus to make it possible for us to have a forever relationship with Him. We follow God's example when we show others that they have value too.

some pretty unhappy habits. Sometimes people turn over and over trying to find out God's mysterious will for their lives. This one is not a mystery. 1 Thessalonians 5:18 makes it clear. If you want to know what God's will is, its gratitude.

"Give thanks in all circumstances, for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus."

1 Thessalonians 5:18 NIV

Something extraordinary will happen in the heart of a child when they learn to look for something to be thankful for in every situation. Gratitude is something that will affect every relationship your child will have. It will affect how they see God, how they see others, and even how they see themselves.

So take a gratitude check. If you can help your child make a gratitude adjustment, that is something you can be thankful for.
